

Something to Wine About: The Sinful Pleasure of a Heavenly Wine

BY LINDA DELMONICO PRUSSEN, OCTOBER 1, 2017

Just in case we don't all get to Heaven, there are a number of "must-have" vinos to stock a heavenly wine bar here on Earth. (Wavebreakmedia/Getty Images/iStockphoto)

Bouchaine Estate Pinot Noir 2014

This Napa wine was the happiest Pinot I've had the pleasure to taste. A fruity rich red, it remains elegant, structured and smooth, while having a deliciously uplifting finish not often found in Pinot Noirs. At $35 this is a good wine to enjoy both with food, from appetizers to dessert, or on its own.
